Unprovoked Murder of a Negro.

In explanation of the brutal murder of hundreds of colored men throughout the South, the plea in extenuation had been made that the victims were guilty, or suspected of being guilty, of a crime calculated to inflame the indignation of every white man in the community where it occurred. This crime, by the way, was only a rehearsal of the lesson which had been taught them by their masters during generations in slavery; and even supposing that every case of such occurrence were authentic, the South is but reaping what she has for ages sown. Other excuses have been given for barbarous outrages on the blacks, that they were a worthless, shiftless, irresponsible race of individuals which no self-respecting people would consent to have thrust into political, not to say social, equality with themselves; or would consent, in communities where the blacks predominated, to be governed by them. But the white perpetrators of the latest murder on a black man of the South cannot slink behind even these shadowy excuses. Mark Jacobs, according to a special dispatch from New Orleans in yesterday's Inter Ocean, was not exercising his political franchise, and no taint of suspicion was entertained as to his moral character. He was one of the most highly respected and prosperous farmers of Arcadia; but he was a black man, and his respectability, thrift, economy good judgment, and other characteristics conducing to his prosperity, which in Republican Lee county would have gained him the respect and esteem of the community, regardless of his color, in the Democratic parish of Bienville, La., was a silent reproach to the opposite qualities of his white neighbors. The indignation of the Southern chivalry is easily inflamed, and his white neighbors could not stand it to have a nigger thus proving his superiority to them. Of course it was beneath their dignity or beyond their ability to follow his example and improve their own condition; the only way left to rid themselves of the standing reproach of inferiority was to "remove" Mr. Jacobs. This they forthwith proceeded to do in the approved fashion suggested by the brutal instincts of that barbarous section. So Jacobs was taken from his field while he was plowing a day or two since, in broad day-light, by a party of white men, blindfolded and carried into the woods, and so terribly beaten that he died, another victim on the altar of Southern Democracy. Five of the parties implicated in the murder have been arrested, but we venture the prophesy that they will receive no punishment worthy of the name, notwithstanding that no cause, other than that of jealousy, is assigned for the outrage.

—The sugar trust is not alone the recipient of favors. While that has been talked about the whisky trust has been granted another "five years" before paying its taxes. This is equivalent to a donation of many millions of dollars to the gentlemen who make whisky.

—Six commonwealers struck Sterling yesterday, tough looking characters, and possessed of quantities of silverware and cutlery. As a hardware store in DeWitt, Iowa, had a day or so previous been robbed of just such property, the whole gang were arrested and lodged in jail.

—The Staats Zeitung, of Chicago, of May 28th, contained a notice of the death, at the age of nearly 73, of Elisea Billow, who more than thirty years ago was a resident of Dixon. Her husband, Frederick Bilow, a native of Denmark, for a number of years kept a hardware store on Galena avenue, where Bunnell's drug store now is.

—At six o'clock this morning there was no water in the city reservoir near the cemetery because people had let their lawn sprinklers run all night. The proper hours to use lawn sprinklers are from six to eight in the morning and from five to eight in the evening, and Supt. John Wasley instructs us to say that the water will be shut off without notice from premises where used after or before these hours.

—It seems that our county has another musical prodigy. The Journal of that musical city, Freeport, says: "A prodigy in the full sense of the word is Master Charles Drummond, from Lee county, who will assist in the grand concert at Germania opera house tonight. Quite a number of good judges of music, among whom were the Messrs. J. S. Lathrop, H. W. Schroeder and others, were present at the rehearsal last evening, and every one who heard him play the violin was truly astonished by the performance of the young gentleman, whose age is only eight years. You will certainly miss it if you do not hear this juvenile artist, for such he is, even if he is only a child."

—One of the pleasing features in the recent elections is the defeat of Governor Pennoyer in Oregon, who had an eye on the United States Senate. He was elected governor by a combination of Democrats and Populists, and first made himself notorious by an ungentlemanly and insulting reply to a dispatch from Mr. Cleveland and his secretary of state, Mr. Graham. He is a blatherskite of the Walpole-Lewelling sort. In the recent contest Pennoyer was nominated by a Democratic convention with a Populist platform. Governor Pennoyer will soon step into the obscurity that yawns for him. The wonder will then be that so small a man contrived to fill so considerable a space on the canvas of a Nation.

—Rochelle is assuming metropolitan airs. Within the last two weeks the mayor's house has been robbed, and Frank Barker, the druggist, had a narrow escape from death a few nights since. He woke about one o'clock and seeing a burglar in his room sprang out of bed and gave chase. The burglar sprang out of a window that stood open and as he did so a pal outside opened fire on Barker, the shot struck in a door casing, a few inches from Barker's side. This probably cooled Barker's enthusiasm as he was unarmed, and the thief escaped with a gold watch and other booty. It is thought these crimes are the work of local talent, and they are getting in their work altogether too often to suit the law abiding citizens. —Ogle County Press.

END OF THE STRIKE

Compromise Agreed on at the Columbus Conference.

SCHEDULE OF THE PRICES FIXED.

Next Monday Named as the Day for Resumption of Work If All Goes Well.

That Much Time Required by the Strike Leaders to Bring the Men Into Line—Basis of the Agreement Is 60 Cents for Ohio and 69 for Pennsylvania—The Ohio President Refuses to Sign, But It Is Declared Final—Strikers at Spring Valley, Ills., Organize a Raid on Kewanee—Field Notes.

COLUMBUS, O., June 12.—The conference of operators and leaders of the Miners' union has agreed and work is to be resumed in all the mines in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, if the aforementioned leaders can induce their followers to accept the compromise. About 5:30 p. m. yesterday the scale committee announced that an agreement had been reached and was being drawn up. The compromise was on the basis of 60 cents for Ohio and 69 cents for western Pennsylvania. The agreement is not to take effect until next Monday, June 18, the miners' union men desiring to have a week's notice to the various districts, to which much opposition to the compromise is expected, and the miners will have to be prepared to accept it. After agreeing the scale committee appointed to meet the conference at 8 p. m. to have the agreement ratified.

An Ohio Kick, but "It Goes."
The joint conference was called to order promptly at 8 o'clock to hear the scale committee's report, and it was as promptly ratified. A. A. Adams, president of the Ohio Miners, who was a member of the scale committee, refused to sign the agreement. The settlement, however, is final. The scale agreed upon is as follows:

Pittsburg, thin vein, 69 cents; thick vein 50 cents.
Rocking Valley, 60 cents.
Indiana, bituminous, 60 cents; Indiana block, 70 cents.
Streator, Ills., 63½ for summer, and 70 for winter.
Bloomington, Ills., 77½ cents for summer, and 85 for winter.
La Salle and Spring Valley, Ills., 72½ cents summer, and 80 for winter.
Other sections in northern Illinois fields at prices relative to the above.

Binding Until May 1, 1895.
Coal in Pittsburg district going east to tide-water shall pay the same mining price as that paid by the Pennsylvania Gas and Petroleum Company. The scale of prices will be ineffectual and bind both parties thereto beginning June 18, 1894, and continue until May 1, 1895; provided that the above named scale of prices for the Pittsburg districts shall be generally recognized and observed. The miners and operators shall cooperate in their efforts to secure an observance of said price, and if during the period covered by the agreement recognition of the price herein named cannot be secured either party to this agreement may call a meeting of the joint board of arbitration and determine whether the determination of the miners to accept no compromise can be modified. A majority of the operators left for their homes immediately after the adjournment of the conference and those who could be seen were confident that the agreement would bring about a speedy settlement of the strike. E. T. Hart, of LaSalle, Ills., was of the opinion that the settlement in northern Illinois would influence the southern part of that state to come into line.

The Men Have to Be Heard From.
While it has been announced that the agreement reached by the operators and miners is final its effect upon the miners remains to be seen. The fact that fully a week will intervene before the agreement takes effect leads to the belief that the determination of the miners to accept no compromise can be modified. A majority of the operators left for their homes immediately after the adjournment of the conference and those who could be seen were confident that the agreement would bring about a speedy settlement of the strike. E. T. Hart, of LaSalle, Ills., was of the opinion that the settlement in northern Illinois would influence the southern part of that state to come into line.

SPRING VALLEY MINERS MOVE.
Determined to Bring Out the Men Working at Kewanee.

SPRING VALLEY, Ills., June 12.—The miners of this district have gone out of patience with the Kewanee miners and are massing in the streets preparing to march on that place. The men are angry and say they will get Kewanee out and all the militia in the state cannot stop them if they get their Tolosa army together. Committees were sent to Oglesby, La Salle, Peru, Seatonsville, Ladd and Laceyville to get the men to join. There is no doubt but that they will, and by this afternoon at least 4,000 men will move from this city.

Of course orders will be given to the men to leave their arms at home, but it is needless to say that they will have other and more persuasive weapons than the clubs they carry to lighten the exertions of the march. The march will be led by the action of the Kewanee miners. They say they are in better condition to suspend work than the Spring Valley miners, for they have worked night and day since the suspension, with the exception of a week.

The men are eager for the march, and with determination that the strike will take as lightly of the trip to Kewanee as of a day's work. It is a forty-mile stretch, and they will take the shortest route across the country. There is some talk of seizing a train. It is rumored here that the sheriff of Henry county is at Kewanee with a force of 250 armed deputies in anticipation of the march of the miners.

The men say 250 deputies will not stop them, nor do they seem to fear the militia with their Winchester. The anarchists are very rabid and are greatly excited. They held a secret meeting. It is not known what was done, but it is pretty certain that the situation at Kewanee was discussed. At any rate they are the prime movers in the enterprise, and they will likely be joined by all the miners in the district.

Not only is Kewanee to be brought out, but Galva will also be marched upon. Said one miner: "We have repeatedly warned those places to close working and have threatened to march upon them in a body. They have taken no heed and now we intend to show them that we mean business." The following just came over the wires from one of our committees: "Seatonsville will go solid 400 men. Ladd will certainly go."

A Conference That Failed.
POMEROY, O., June 12.—At the conference of the operators and miners here forty delegates were in attendance, repre-

BUILT OUT OF SPITE

Geary's Assertion as to Stanford University.

IGNOBLE MOTIVE AND STOLEN OASH

The Base of an Educational Institution Californians Are Proud Of—The Golden Gate Statesman in Favor of Government Ownership of Railways—Quay Has a Little Newspaper Story to Deny—Caffery Tells How He Met Havemeyer.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The hearing by the house committee on Pacific railroads of Representative Geary was rather sensational. The representative not only declared the Leland Stanford university built with the people's money and its builder—this by implication—entitled only to a penitentiary cell, but attacked the motives of the builder. Geary argued strongly that the act creating the Central Pacific road contemplated that the government should take possession if there was default in payments. Proceedings against individuals or stockholders' estates he considered useless and doubtful of success. Heretofore the company had never been in a position to proceed against dishonest directors, but if the government took possession it might reach back to 1862 to recover all money diverted through construction companies or otherwise, returning it to the public treasury.

Built with an Ignoble Motive.
"I do not know," said Geary, "why we should put poor old Coxe, who trod on three or four blades of grass, in jail and let go another criminal—because of the enormity of his offense—who filched hundreds of millions and defied him because in his last moments he erected with his money and the people's money a university. We of California are proud of that university, but ashamed of the motives that built it. We know that it was erected from meanness and revenge to destroy another university that refused to make the founder a trustee. Would you wink at the crime through which that university was erected? No respect for men living or dead should control the control of railroads. Maguire animals that should be monuments to the people."

Government Control of Railways.
"Would you have the government control this railroad or all railroads?" inquired a member of the committee.
"This railroad first; all railroads afterward," replied Geary.
Representative Maguire stated that he was opposed to any funding measure providing for an extension of the period for the payment of the Pacific debts. Boatner inquired if Maguire did not view this as an opportunity to experiment on government control of railroads. Maguire answered that he regarded it as an opportunity to settle the whole railroad question. Maguire could see no reason why the government should give up the chance of recovering $30,000,000 of the Stanford estate and the Huntington property because of Hopkins and Crocker estates had been settled.

Effect of the Funding Bill.
The effect of a funding bill would be to postpone foreclosure or proceedings against the stockholders until the expiration of the funding period. Maguire's proposition was that the government should secure the appointment of a majority of the directors of the Central Pacific who should institute suits to secure diverted funds. In conclusion he advocated the necessity of legislation to grant the patenting of Pacific land grants, for which he had introduced a resolution jointly with Senator White.

QUAY DEPARTS FROM HIS CUSTOM, And Takes Time to Declare False a Newspaper.
WASHINGTON, June 12.—Quay jubilantly and with no intention of malice suggested an addition to the burden of the senate inquiry into the alleged sugar wickedness when he proposed that the senate "scandal" committee take up some new newspaper allegations, this time about himself, and see what there was in them. The charge was that Quay was the active agent of a Philadelphia syndicate which was seeking control of the surface roads in this city, and intimated that this scheme was "as malicious as the sugar scandal."

Quay simply said it was a lie based on the fact that he had introduced two gentlemen interested in Washington railways, and who wanted to enlarge and improve those interests, to members of the District committee, so that they could present their case. That was all. He had no more to say with it. The only reason that he had departed from his usual custom of treating with silent contempt all newspaper lies, was that Senator Chandler had been given by this New York paper as authority. Chandler also said the "special" was a liar, and that ended the matter.

The committee heard before the sugar trust investigating committee to amplify the statement heretofore made by him concerning his meeting with Havemeyer at Erie's house. He was reported in his former testimony to have said that he had been requested to see Senator Erie, who happened to be in Senator Erie's house, but he had not seen the manner in which Havemeyer happened to be there, which he wished to do. "Prior to seeing Mr. Havemeyer," Mr. Caffery said, "there was a discussion between those present and ex-Senator White and myself as to the comparative merits of the ad valorem and specific rates of duty on sugar."

"There was a great deal of difference on this point, and Senator Erie stated that there was a gentleman in this city who knew more about the operation of any given rate of duty on sugar than perhaps any other man in the United States, and that if it were agreeable he would send for him. That man was Mr. Havemeyer. Senator Erie asked me if I had any objection to meeting Mr. Havemeyer and having a discussion with him on this particular point. I told him I had not. I simply desired to state that Mr. Havemeyer came to the house in pursuance of the invitation of Mr. Erie."

He Sympathized With the Mob.
DENVER, June 12.—Giles O. Pearce, a metallurgist of Colorado Springs, has come to Denver after receiving the following note addressed to him as an "anarchist" and signed "Comrades": "We, as a committee, do not think there is room for you in Colorado Springs. Now, take warning. This is final." Pearce was kept in jail for five days because he openly expressed sympathy for the Cripple Creek miners.

BY FLOOD AND FIRE

Omaha in Danger From the Rising Missouri.

A CHANGE OF COURSE THREATENED

The Tricky Stream May Return to Its Old Bed and Destroy Millions of Dollars in Property—Foundation at Augusta, Kas.—Forest Fires in Michigan Create a General Panic—Lakes of Flames Raging—The Destruction at Sagola.

OMAHA, June 12.—The rain in this vicinity has ceased, but the Missouri river continues to rise steadily. The possible danger line is eighteen feet, and the stage of water is something over fourteen feet. The local United States weather bureau officers declare that if the conditions to the north were of a foreboding character they would receive telegraphic communication at once, and the danger at Omaha depends upon sudden rises to the north. The indications, however, are for increasing rains in this vicinity and to the north, which makes the situation more serious. The river is pouring into Florence lake. This is a lake of water a few miles above the city for nearly the old river bed, and for years the river has threatened to return to its ancient channel by this course.

Would Wipe Out Millions.
This would result in the destruction of millions of dollars' worth of property, as the old river bed for miles is crowded with freight yards, big warehouses and residences. While the rise of three feet would bring the river to a very dangerous stage it would take even more to force it into the old channel, as the property owners along the river have taken every precaution to protect their places by artificial means. The river men are watching the encroaching waters narrowly. The river cannot possibly reach the danger line before noon today at the most rapid rise.

Delay Stops the Waterworks.
ELDORADO, Kan., June 12.—The water from the Walnut river has subsided in this city. It has reached Augusta and backed up to the center of that town. People passed Brown's bank in boats. This is one and one-half miles from the river. The entire southern part of Augusta is inundated. The north wall of the waterworks in Augusta is in danger and the pumps. Much loss to live stock is reported. The entire valley has been inundated by the flood and crops of all kinds are generally ruined.

PANIC-STRUCK AT ISHPERING.
Flaming Forests All Around—Lumber Plants Burned—Losses at Sagola.

ISHPERING, Mich., June 12.—A general panic is in progress in this region due to the depredation of forest fires. Sidway, a lumbering town on the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic railway, is being terribly scorched and a lumber company saw-mill plant completely wiped out. The village of Nistoria escaped destruction by a favorable change in the wind. West of Nistoria two railroad bridges have burned. Clowry, on the Chicago and North-western extension, is surrounded by a lake of fire. J. C. Fowle's lumber plant there, with its surroundings seems doomed to destruction.

Half the Village Wiped Out.
IRON, MICHIGAN, Mich., June 12.—Forest fires have wiped out nearly one-half the village of Sagola, twenty miles north, destroying the following property: Sagola Lumber company's dock, $2,000; M. J. McCormick, furniture, $1,500; B. Rahr's saloon, $2,500; Metropolitan Lumber company's warehouse, $1,000; Sagola Lumber company, five dwellings, $2,000; M. J. McCormick, $2,500; and railroad ties and posts.

At Sagoma, four miles south, the houses occupied by settlers burned, also several thousand posts and ties owned by Edward Freeman, of this city. Two mill crews are working night and day to save the mills. Hundreds of acres of potatoes and other farm products are destroyed. The fires are the worst in years and untold damage will be done unless rain falls at once.

Elchison Fires Cremated.
NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., June 12.—Fire destroyed the barn and plant of the Nebraska Street Railway company. Eighteen head of horses were burned to death. Loss unknown, but will be heavy.

She Was Left at the Colonel's Door.
NEW YORK, June 12.—One of the chief mourners at Lieutenant Colonel Daniel Mahen's funeral was Mrs. Komori, whose life had a romantic connection with that of the colonel. When a little baby she had been left on the colonel's doorstep. The latter raised the child and when she grew up she married a Japanese gentleman against her adopted father's will. She has separated from her husband. Her marriage led to her being cast off without a penny.

Tried to Wreck the Troop Train.
PASA, Ills., June 12.—The First regiment, Illinois national guard, has left for home on a special train. After the train had got a mile out of town persons supposed to be strikers attempted to wreck the train by placing a piece of iron rail between switch frogs. The danger was discovered in time to avoid an accident.

Was a Very Harmless Bomb.
MIDvale, Ill., June 12.—The bomb that created such a scare here was examined and found to be stuffed with old paper and things from an empty wheel. Mr. O'Connell has shaken hands and agreed not to prosecute the men who put the instrument at his door, as he threatened to do if he could get sufficient proof.

Wants Debe' Taton to Help.
KANSAS CITY, June 12.—George C. Ward has left here for Chicago to attend the first annual convention of the American Railway Union. Ward's purpose is to induce the Pacific union to espouse the cause of the striking road builders.

Rank-Crossings as Vagrants.
DENVER, June 12.—Several hundred men from new and old commercial movement societies will arrest and imprison as vagrants all Caucasians entering the city.

A Case of Cause and Effect.
NEW YORK, June 12.—Thomas Reilly ran about playing for a week with a splinter imbedded in his right foot. He died at the Roosevelt hospital in great agony of lockjaw.

Another Apportionment Suit.
PITTSBURG, S. D., June 12.—Legal proceedings have been commenced here to test the constitutionality of the apportionment act under which the last legislature was elected. If the apportionment is found to be unconstitutional it will invalidate all the laws passed by that body.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The sensational report of President Cleveland's illness is false. He had a slight attack of indigestion yesterday, but was at his desk in the afternoon and is all right today.

CONSOI DATION OF LABOR UNIONS.

Chief of the Knights and Federation Meet at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, June 12.—A conference of national officers of labor organizations has assembled here, called by the general executive board of the Knights of Labor with a view to bringing about unity of work among all labor organizations and to report back to the next meetings of all their national bodies. When the conference was called to order by General Master Workman Sovereign there were present nearly all the well-known organizations of labor, including John W. Hay, Samuel Gompers, P. J. McGuire, S. E. Wilkinson, E. Eckhart, and others. The conference organized with Sovereign as chairman, and P. J. McGuire, head of the Brotherhood of Carpenters of the American Federation of Labor, as secretary.

Everything was conducted in a perfectly harmonious manner and the discussions went to show that the delegates were in favor of adopting some plan whereby the various organizations would become more closely allied to one another than they were at present. At the afternoon session a document was submitted to the conference by the representatives of the Knights of Labor. The contents of this document were kept secret and a committee consisting of Samuel Gompers, M. J. Bishop and Charles W. Maier was appointed to act upon it and make a report.

The meeting was then adjourned until today. Chairman Sovereign was seen at the close of the afternoon session and stated positively that there had been no talk whatever of any consolidation of the various organizations.

YOUNG MAN STARVED TO DEATH.
His Father and Step-Mother Arrested for the Crime.

CARIBAGE, Ills., June 12.—Mr. and Mrs. John Leffler, wealthy residents of this county, have been indicted and arrested, charged with having starved their son to death. John Leffler is aged 70, and his wife, his second one, is young and rather possessing. Leffler had a son Henry by a former wife, and he was a helpless paralytic. The boy had been in Iowa for some time and came back home. This displeased Leffler, who is charged, began to starve the young man. A neighboring woman roused her friends and a call was made on the Lefflers.

Although admission was refused to the house an entrance was effected and Henry Leffler was found lying on a cot in a pantry 4 by 8 feet with flies covering him an inch thick, and enveloped in filth. He was then nearly dead. The neighbors employed a physician, who testified that the young man's condition was due to lack of proper food. The victim was removed to the poor house by neighbors, where he died in a few days from effects of starvation, as alleged.

NORTHERN PACIFIC APPEAL.
Arguments on the Now Famous Jenkins Injunction Case Begun.

CHICAGO, June 12.—The appeal of the employees of the Northern Pacific railroad from the injunction issued by Judge Jenkins in the United States circuit court in Milwaukee last winter to prevent them from striking came up for argument in the United States court of appeals. The receivers were represented by ex-Senator Spooner, of Wisconsin, who wrote the now famous injunction, and George P. Miller, of Milwaukee. The employees were represented by T. W. Harper, of Terre Haute, and Charles Quarries and T. W. Harper, of Milwaukee.

The court is composed of Judges Harlan, Woods and Bunn. The argument was begun by Spooner for the employees. He was followed by Spooner, who spoke in behalf of the injunction. When the argument is finished the court will grant the original injunction or the receivers' attorneys and certify the case to the supreme court for decision, or Judges Harlan, Woods and Bunn may decide it as they see fit.

The Switchmen's Reciprocity Case.
CHICAGO, June 12.—Judge Tullihall has vacated the order appointing John C. Wilson receiver of the Switchmen's Mutual Aid association, upon application of counsel for the organization. It was agreed between all the parties to the suit that the proceedings would take the form of an inquiry into the merits of the claims of George Hunt, president of the association, effectually disposes of the reciprocity question and hearing of the claim will be taken up at a later date.

Why the Negroes Want to Leave.
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 12.—The negro living in the section around Rancho, east of here, are terror-stricken on account of reports that the white people of that locality have organized for the purpose of giving them severe whippings. The cause of the report was that three or four of the most unruly negroes of the community have recently been punished in that manner by their white employers.

NOW WE BEHOLD THE BEWITCHING OUTING GOWNS.

A New Silk That Combines All the Excellencies of All the Others—Checked Silks Are Favorites For Summer Dresses. Dresses For Young Girls.

[Copyright, 1904, by American Press Association.]

I have seen many pretty and stylish blouses and outing gowns lately, but the prettiest and I think the most stylish of them all was one I saw today. The skirt was cut to fit snugly over the hips in front and was held very full in the back. There was an overskirt lifted on the left side with a small edgewise silver snake. The material of which the suit was made was pearl gray broadcloth, as fine as satin on the surface.

OUTING GOWN OF PEARL BROADCLOTH.

It was tailor stitched under the bottom. The overskirt was slightly draped a little on the right side at the belt, which gave a wrinkled front. The jacket was simply exquisite, and it was half fitting and cut away round two inches below the waist. In front it met at the neck and then turned back in extra folds. The skirt was made of blue corded silk. The wide belt was dark blue, and the whole suit was dainty as well as superbly rich. I omitted to say that this is an imported gown.

Among the richest of the handsome silks for coronation use are the mirrors, which combine all the excellencies of all the others. The three and four inch wide, with a few pleats, and then there are figures either stamped or woven in of a very artistic design and arrangement of color. The whole is opalescent and shows glints and gleams of unexpected tints, and above all these effects is thrown the mirror or watered figure. Chateaus and castles, and along with broken lines of light. This silk is rich and of superb quality, so that it makes a dress fit for a queen.

A visiting gown was made for a young married lady last week. The back of the skirt hung from a deep shirring. The front bodice was fitted under a ribbon bow. Down each side seam was a row of black lace insertion. The sleeves were made bishop style and had pointed cuffs covered with merino. The waist was plain and laid in plaits down to the small point in front, and there was a butterfly bow of the dress material on the bust, where the deep black lace bertha met. This bertha was more like a pelerine edged with lace. The collar was of lace, and so were two bands that reached down the front to the bow. The colors in this silk were those of a fine opal, and the whole gown was superb. I must leave the favor of bishop sleeves in splendid gowns. They look far richer than sleeves where the material is cut up into small pieces, or where there is a combination. They are graceful and make the hands and waist look small.

There is a shape in hats which seems to be exactly the right one, and it apparently belongs with the bishop sleeve and plaited waist. That shape has been made familiar by many ancient paintings, and as it is graceful in form and finish it deserves popularity. The crown is quite high and has a ribbon straight around it, with the ends tucked in a bow in the back. The sides roll down over the eyes, and the sides roll up and tie fast with velvet. In front there is a lace bow and on the crown richly embroidered, and there are dainty white china silk frocks, tucked or plain. These all have lace around the necks, and the sleeves consist of two ruffles. Then if a guimpe is worn the waist does not seem overtrimmed. For every day there are many very pretty colored chambrays and linens.

Some of the chambrays are prettily embroidered in contrasting threads, and they wash well. A child's neck and arms are so pretty that when the weather will permit it would be a pleasure to see them in short sleeves. There is a pattern where the ground is quite dark blue and the stripes very light. The checks are very large, and this is made up on the bias, and around the bottom and on the ruffle around the neck and sleeves are worked embroidered wheels or other devices in white floss or perhaps scarlet. These are set in the same kind of pattern. They are made into a dress that is quite a new thing in time or labor. Feather stitching is quite as popular as it ever was for trimming children's clothes, and it is better adapted for the purpose than any other garniture, as it washes well, always looks refined and can be applied where anything else would look coarse or awkward.

Shoes for children are shown in greater variety than usual. There are slippers with straps across the ankle, Newport ties and Oxfords. These are nearly always made without heels for all children under 15, but they are as nice and comfortable as they can be made. There are some dress shoes for children made of fancy checks and stripes, but the most are black and russet. For everyday wear thick ribbed stockings are worn. These thick ribbed stockings are not any thicker or warmer than the smooth stockings, though they look so.

Nearly everybody now wears a loose blouse waist of some kind, either of thin wool, percale, cambric or silk. There are very dainty white ones for wearing with blazer suits, some having the fronts bow and hanging and others having the top and bottom shirred, and they are fastened with buttons and laces, and some with a plaited front or a regular jabot front. There are so many different designs that it would be impossible to describe them all. The striped, plain or fancy figured silks and the surah and changeable silks all make beautiful waists, and if the waist is cool the skirt may be made of goods that suit a lady, even if quite heavy.

White muslin and swiss dotted wrappers trimmed with lace will be worn for early morning, and wonderfully dainty and cool they look. I saw a lot of them marked at from 75 cents to $3, all nicely made and trimmed with lace and ribbon. Irish linen is largely used for everyday wrappers, and so is chambray. This last is also used in the making of many handsome afternoon dresses.

In new light wools there is illuminated jacquards, which is a sort of metallic effect wrought by brocades, using threads of different textures and colors of the warp and weft. There are several very delicate pinched checks in light wool, and several new effects in feather mixtures. The granite chevrot is shown in lighter weights and richer colors, and all these woolen skirts are worn with silk waists.

two curled tips. The dark blue and cardinal velvet facings are the most effective, but black velvet also looks well for almost everybody.

Checked silks in black and white, gray and white, each and blue, and, in fact, almost all combinations, have become great favorites for all kinds of summer frocks both for out and indoors. One odd but very comfortable and sensible dress made of two shades of gray is worth a description. The front bodice was cut in ribbons, pale pink and deep cardinal. These were split at the bottom. The skirt was cut in a similar manner, and so were the sleeves. The whole design looked very pretty and effective and a cheerful thing to wear on a dull, dark day.

Many of these checked silks, particularly those of twisted weave, wash beautifully, ly, and thus they are specially valuable for waists and for such gowns as are for constant wear and also for children.

There are several weaves of silk that wash quite as well as cotton, and they are indians, pongs, china and habutai, besides those which are called wash silks. Taffetas, armures, failles and moires, and also velvets are spoiled by washing. Satin, on the contrary, can be washed as often as one wants to do it, and it looks just the same as new. Failles and ottomans and bengaline can be easily cleaned at home and made to look better than if sent to a professional cleaner, and the glossy shine will never appear again on the same spot. To do this, shake the garment free from dust, and if there are any grease spots remove them with ammonia and water. Then take a tablespoonful of arrachin to half a cup of cider vinegar, and with a clean flannel rub the surface smartly until the silk is wet through. Smooth out all the wrinkles while wet and then hang the garment in a shaded place to dry. It should not be ironed or pressed, and the silk will look just like new in every respect. If your druggist does not keep arrachin, use the vinegar plain, which is nearly as good as that mixed with arrachin. This treatment leaves the silk stiff and fresh and with its natural bloom. It is the glucose put into silks in these degenerate days that makes them grow shiny with so little wear.

There is a very pretty fancy in silk particularly adapted to the needs of the young. It has a soft and rather elastic twill, and the pattern runs in broken diagonal lines, such as green or beige or biscuit. The silk is thin and light and not expensive, but looks much richer than it is. A very dainty dress for a girl of 16 was shown made with two skirts, the bottom one sprung and plain. The upper one had two bias ruffles set under the top one, each bound with narrow black velvet ribbon. The colors were russet red and green stripes over a soft fawn ground. At the waist was a belt made of three bias strips bound with velvet. The waist was shirred very full to the neck, and the bodice were made with three ruffles, bound with velvet. The sleeves were short bellows cuffs over long coat sleeves. The dress looked quite simple, but has really a great deal of work on it. But sometimes it pays to put many stitches in a dress. Many mothers have dresses which as dresses for themselves have outlived their usefulness, and yet with judicious planning there will be enough material to make a frock for the daughter. Not having whole pieces to cut from, there must of necessity be a number of small ones, and it is quite an art to get a really handsome and stylish dress out of them. This design is well adapted to that plan, though, of course, a new one can be made with narrow black velvet ribbon.

There are a number of low necked and short sleeved frocks for small girls this summer. They can be worn this way in very warm weather, and a guimpe is added if the days should be a little cooler. There are white muslins with the bottoms

Found a Cure for Sciatic Rheumatism. Mrs. A. Inveen, residing at 720 Henry St., Alton, Ill., suffered with sciatic rheumatism for over eight months. She doctored for it nearly the whole of this time, using various remedies recommended by friends, and was treated by the physicians but received no relief. She then used one and a half bottles of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which effected a complete cure. This is published at her request as she wants others similarly afflicted to know what cured her. For sale by E. M. Bunnell & Co., Druggists.

A RETIRED BUSINESS WOMAN.

A Page From Her History.

The important experiences of others are interesting. The following is no exception: "I had been troubled with heart disease 25 years, most of that time very seriously. For five years I was treated by one physician continuously. I was in bed, but I was not able to get up. My feet and limbs were badly swollen, and I was indeed in a serious condition when a gentleman directed my attention to Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and I saw in his sister, who had been afflicted with heart disease, had been cured by the remedy, and was again a strong, healthy woman. I purchased a bottle of the Heart Cure, and in less than an hour after taking the first dose I could feel a decided improvement in the condition of my blood. When I had taken three doses I could go to my work, and my limbs had been swollen so long that they seemed almost purified. Before I had taken one bottle of the New Heart Cure the swelling had all gone down, and I was so much better that I did my own work. On my recommendation six others are taking this valuable remedy."—Mrs. Morgan, 509 W. Harrison St., Chicago, Ill.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, a discovery of an eminent specialist in heart disease, is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee or sent by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from all opiates or dangerous drugs.

—R. P. Searle, of Rockford, rode to our city this morning on his bicycle, and after attending to some business started home about ten o'clock, meaning to make the round trip in nine hours, a distance of one hundred miles. This is his tenth century run this season.

—Seven boys were arrested in Rockford yesterday, some of them only ten years of age, none of them over twelve, charged with breaking into stores and stealing both goods and cash. They will probably be in jail till the September term of court, in company with criminals, and then be given a reform school sentence.

—The Epworth League at its semi-annual election last evening, made choice of the following officers: President, W. G. Waite; 1st vice-president, Nellie Moore; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. W. G. Waite; 3d vice-president, Charles Decker; 4th vice-president, Emma Bovey; secretary, Callie Morgan; treasurer, Ernest H. Moore.

—At the business meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps yesterday afternoon, Mrs. D. H. Law having on account of ill health resigned the presidency of the corps, Mrs. J. Brubaker, the senior vice president was elected to fill the vacancy and Mrs. I. W. Lewis was elected to fill the vacancy created by Mrs. Brubaker's election. It was also decided to hold a picnic at Assembly Park next Saturday afternoon.

—A few weeks ago when his employees asked for better pay, complaining that successive cuts in wages had made it impossible for them to support their families on their earnings, George M. Pullman put them off with the statement that the works had been run at a loss for many months and solely for the purpose of keeping the men employed. Yet in the face of this assurance the Pullman company had just declared and paid a quarterly dividend of two per cent. —Sterling Herald.

It is by such unfair statements as the above that a spirit of anarchy is engendered in this country. The intention is to show that Mr. Pullman is not telling the truth and aims to deal unfairly with his employees, but the impression is unjust. The Pullman Company in connection with the railroads in the business of transporting sleeping cars has a very "soft snap" in making money, but at this time of business depression we have no doubt but the shops at Pullman are not prospering, and it would be, as stated, better to close down. In substance the same statement (we saw it in the Oregon Democrat), we copy above, has been going the rounds of Democratic papers with unfair and dishonest comments calculated to cater to the discontent of the laboring classes and prejudice them against manufacturers. It is one of the modes of calamity howling. THE TELEGRAPH does not approve of in any shape. We have no friendship for Mr. Pullman and as between his workmen and his rich company our sympathy is all with the laborer, but we do like fair play. It is such demagogic talk as we quote above that is causing much trouble in this country.

Sugar at Retail.

Grocers assert everywhere that there is little or no profit in retailing sugars, and housekeepers confirm this by saying that there is small economy in buying sugar by the keg. The tradition touching the small profit in handling sugar at retail is certainly more than 100 years old, for a writer in the middle of last century affirmed that London grocers of that day were often out £50 to £70 a year for paper and pack thread used in wrapping up sugar, and some grocers would not sell sugar to a customer who did not at the same time purchase some other article. —Chicago Herald.

The Difference.

At one time there were two members of the house of commons named Montagu Matthew and Matthew Montagu—the former a tall, handsome man, and the latter a little man. During a session of parliament, the speaker having addressed the latter as the former, Montagu Matthew observed that it was strange he should make such a mistake, as there was as great a difference between them as between a horse chestnut and a chestnut horse. —London Million.

The Goddess Pele.

Pele, the dreadful goddess of volcanic fires, first made her abode among the Hawaiian islands in company with many furious brothers and sisters ages ago. Scholars suppose that Pele and the wind gods were introduced into the mythology of Hawaii at the time of the second migration of Polynesians. —Philadelphia Ledger.

Not Scotch Enough.

It is said that never was there a greater enthusiast over his own countrymen than Sir David Wilkie, the celebrated Scotch artist. One amusing story connected with this trait of his character was told by Henry Thomson, who afterward grew to be quite a friend of Wilkie's. "Thomson! Ye mair be a Scotch Thomson, I'll warrant," said Sir David as they sat together for the first time at an academy dinner. "I am of that ilk," was the reply. "My father was a Scotchman."

"Was he, really?" exclaimed Wilkie, grasping the other's hand warmly. "And my mother was Irish."

"Aye, aye, was she really?" and the hand relaxed its grasp a trifle. "And I was born in England."

Upon that Wilkie dropped his new friend's hand and almost turned his back upon him. His disappointment was so evident that Thomson actually felt regret instead of indignation at this treatment and later on endeavored to counteract the effect of his unfortunate nationality. But for that day Wilkie had no further desire to talk to him and showed it plainly. —Youth's Companion.

—The spring poet is dead, and his summer successor springs on us the following: No more we sigh for summer, for we've got it in a heap: The heat has rolled upon us with a wild, terrific sweep. It hesitated for a while and then it came "ker plunk."

The Spring-time's out of fashion quite. The Till all at once we find we're almost hot enough to fry. We slide from Greenland's mountain clear to burning Yucatan. With scarcely time wherein to swap our winter for a fan.

Barnes' Table-talk.
SPRINGFIELD, ILL.

WHERE'S THE AREA?
Patrick Creden, of the West End, is a man of more than ordinary ability. He is industrious and saving and no one can boast of a nicer home after thirty years of toil as a workman. He has always been a good Democrat, and his counsel has frequently been sought by his friends, as well as the leaders of his party. In a conversation the other day with a gentleman who desires to serve the people through the medium of an office, Pat said:

"I'm not saying how I'm going to vote this fall, Mr. Jones."

"But you are going to vote the ticket, are you not, Pat?"

"Well, Mr. Jones, I'm not sure about that, whin yez axed me to vote the ticket two years ago yez tould me something about an ara of prosperity that was going to come whin yez got a good boutt upon the government. Have yez got it yet, and if so where's the ara?"

"Why, Pat, we really haven't had a chance to fulfill our promises yet. You can see by the papers how we are bothered."

"Oh, yes, I can see and I can read, too, and my conclusions are that it will be the best thing for the country if yez never get a chance. Sure it's the devil's own times yer getting in has brought us. I thought whin yez got the president, and the senate and the house, that one dinner pail wouldn't hold all the good things yez promised to put in it, but, begorra, its lying out in the yard beyant, getting rusty for the want of a piece of cowlid liver."

"But, Pat, we—"

"There's no use of talking, Mr. Jones, as me bye says, 'yer not in it, not even a little bit.' The party needs a spanking. Mr. Jones, and it will get it, so ye had better go home and prepare yerself for yer share of the dose."

Chinese Soldiers.

The following quotation from an author who had experience with General Gordon's "ever victorious army" shows Chinamen are admirably suitable for soldiers:

"The old notion is pretty well got rid of that they are at all a cowardly people when properly paid and efficiently led, while the regularity and order of their habits, which dispose them to peace in ordinary times, give place to a daring bordering upon recklessness in time of war. Their intelligence and capacity for remembering facts make them well fitted for use in modern warfare, as do also the coolness and calmness of their disposition."

"Physically they are on the average not so strong as Europeans, but considerably more so than most of the other races of the east, and on a cheap diet of rice, vegetables, salt fish and pork they can go through a vast amount of fatigue, whether in a temperate climate or a tropical one, where Europeans are ill fitted for exertion. Their wants are few, they have no caste prejudices and hardly any appetite for intoxicating liquors."

—Nineteenth Century.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC:

In order to place myself in the right light before the people I wish to state that I have called on some who have stated positively that they have no dogs, when on the contrary I have conclusive proof that they have, and I wish here to say for their benefit and for the benefit of others who I shall yet call on that I have prepared a list of all those owning dogs, and all those refusing to give in such next spring. This is one of my duties and I propose to carry it out.
